The demand for Betonlook's stunning flooring systems is intensifying, as is the firm's search for licensees and representatives to introduce the product to architects.

FLOORS

Watch the admiring glances of people as they walk across a stunning Betonlook floor – a sparkling or beautifully textured surface that never fails to exert a magnetic attraction on everyone in the room. It's the mystery in Betonlook's poured-epoxy flooring systems that has put the Dutch company on the market with a bang, and with amazing results.

Manufacturers with the right qualities and resources can profit from Betonlook's success

WORLDWIDE DEMAND

Betonlook floors – sporting names like Eyecatcher, Marmarstone, X-Factor, Stonedesign and Betonlook – are incredibly popular. At EuroShop, an international trade fair in Düsseldorf, the Breda-based firm was pressed for information by no fewer than 200 interested parties located across the globe. Proof positive that worldwide demand exists for this brilliant epoxy flooring. This is a product that not only reflects a comfortable lifestyle and a sense of luxury, but also promises the benefits of sustainability and easy maintenance.

LICENSEES

Among those 200 interested fairgoers were a substantial number of international retail chains and major corporations. To satisfy the enormous demand, Betonlook is scouring the globe for licensees – flooring manufacturers with the skilled personnel, the ambition and the enthusiasm needed to join Betonlook in covering the floors of the world with these unique products. Companies with the right qualities and resources can and will profit from Betonlook's success.

LOOKING FOR ARCHITECTS

Betonlook also wants to find representatives throughout the world that will visit architects and acquaint them with the exclusive opportunities offered by these floors. An architect who's used Betonlook immediately recognizes the added comfort and fascination offered by Betonlook flooring systems.

Betonlook dares to be different.
